Jo Kernon is a painter who has been working in East London for the past seven years. Jo has most recently been selected to exhibit at The Other Art Fair 2016 in London and at The Arnolfini, Bristol. At Carousel she will be exhibiting a selection of abstract colour field paintings. Jo loves working with colour - pinks, greens & blues feature regularly, as does white. She is interested in the lengthy time it can take to build layers of thin paint in order to come to a final outcome; the process takes several months - sometimes over a year to complete. Layering paint as she does builds the depth of perspective, offering dreamy landscapes whilst occasionally being interrupted by structures of lines, drips and other forms. The paintings experience a number of finalities in the process of their creation, bringing up the questions of endings and beginnings.

Jo works with oils in a range of sizes, but she particularly loves working big. Many of the colours Jo uses are meant to be uplifting, while others are intended for deeper reflection and pause. Titles add poetic dimensions without being too prescriptive: Jo actively encourages others to have the space to experience the artworks in their own unique ways.

Jo has exhibited in London, Bristol, Oxford & Norway. She has also been involved in projects at various spaces including Modern Art Oxford, The Southbank Centre and Chisenhale Art Place, exhibiting works and facilitating workshops.

All paintings will be available for sale, along with a selection of prints, small originals and postcards.
