Bookings

This season guests will have the chance to experience even more of the Ashcombe Estate over a whole weekend. Guy Ritchie has added two new bedroom suites to the six elegant farmhouse en-suite doubles, each furnished by interior designer, Edward Hurst, in the style of a nineteenth century New England shooting lodge.

The new rooms, 'Oliver' and 'Bishop', are situated on the top floor of the former brewery, offering spectacular views of Cranborne Chase; 380 square miles of rare chalk grasslands and ancient woodlands within a designated Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty and International Dark Sky Reserve.

Guests are invited to stay for two nights at a time, with breakfast included and a varied menu from Carousel available to order from the taproom throughout the weekend. There's also a bespoke sauna, wild swimming and yoga session on offer, alongside food and drink workshops from Carousel. The guest chef experience will take place in the lakeside WildKitchen on Saturday evening.
